Being me in my world

Lynher Autumn 1 2023

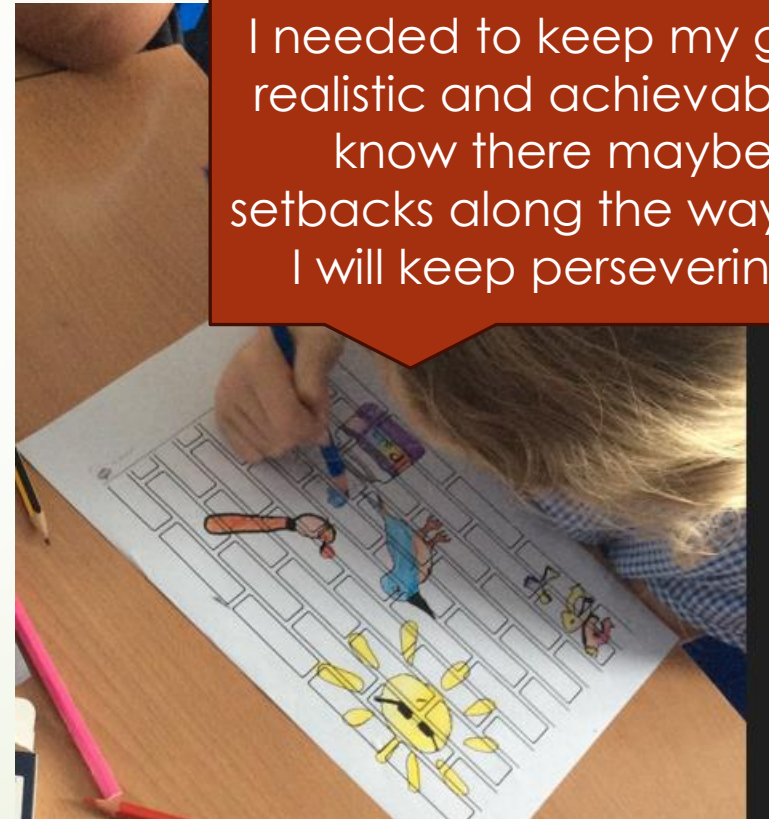

I can face challenges positively and can set personal goals

- We thought about the year ahead and created goals and positive motivations for our positive me board.

I set myself the goal of working my way through 99 club, having it on the wall reminds me to keep trying to achieve it.

I needed to keep my goal realistic and achievable. I know there maybe setbacks along the way but I will keep persevering.

I know there are rights for children.

- We learnt we have rights as a child and sometimes some children's rights are not met. We discussed the difference between a migrant, an asylum seeker and a refugee. We discussed the rights are for ALL children and these cannot be taken away from any child, whatever their situation may be, or because of how they behave, that no child needs to worry about being responsible for their own rights or losing them because of something they might do or say. We are aware that sometimes, unfortunately, these rights aren't met, and we can try our best to support each other.

It must be difficult for the government to prioritise who to help first, so nobody is having their rights taken away.

Even if a child has come from another country, our government must help them as they have rights as a child to a safe space.

I understand my rights and responsibilities as a member of my school.

- We discussed our rights to an education and how we can use our responsibility to help us learn. In groups we came up with 6 important things we all need to learn and used our ABC to come up with 6 for the class. We then discussed our responsibilities to uphold these.

We will work quietly when needed so others can focus on their work without distractions.

I know why we have rules and know what rewards and consequences are.

- We looked at why we have rules and explained it allows us to keep safe and protected from harm. We talked about rules within the school and the rewards we get for following them and any consequences for breaking them.

Following rules keeps us safe, but also tells us how to play certain games.

If we didn't have rules there would be chaos and games would be unfair as people wouldn't know what to do.

In school we need to use our school values.
